NEW HARVEST 2019

MIT Media Lab in Cambridge

July 19 and 20

30 days from today, 300+ companies, scientists, students, investors, and policymakers are meeting at MIT for #NewHarvest2019 - the fourth edition of the first ever conference on growing meat, milk, eggs, leather, and more from cells instead of animals.

Hear from the USDA directly about regulating cell-based meat.

Learn about career opportunities in cell ag from company founders.

Get a first look at cutting-edge research in cell-based seafood.

Curious about who you can expect to hear from at #NewHarvest19?

Unlike many conferences in today's tech landscape, #NewHarvest2019 is focused on cutting through the hype, not adding to it.

Don't miss this chance to join the top minds and voices in the field in discussing the scientific and regulatory hurdles, trajectories to commercialization, and diverging considerations from plant-based products for cell-based foods.

Not convinced? Watch this recap of last year's conference.
